

AMP50215 Diploma of Meat Processing 2017

Information for Employers

Diploma of Meat Processing: The Diploma of Meat Processing is a qualification designed for emerging and existing leaders within meat processing. It is ideal for leaders that have a team and are looking to upskill in areas such as leadership, WHS, food safety and environment management.

Away from the workplace: Knowledge takes time to acquire. The workshops allow time for exploration of knowledge and its application to the work area. The leader will be away for 3 or 4 days for each of the events of learning. These are broken up into 1 or 2 occasions depending on unit clustering. They will be away from their role for up to 20 days, including travel, across a 12month period.

Time in the workplace: The value in the Diploma of Meat Processing is the changes that leaders can make to the workplace as they acquire their learning and undertake their assessment.

In order to achieve this there is a need for the leader to utilise time at work to transfer the learning into their work area i.e. undertake a project to that improves the operation of their area in time, cost and quality savings, a safety project to reduce/remove a hazard Each participant will be given assessment that will need to be applied to the workplace.

Locations: All delivery will be in Qld – venues to be advised

TAFE Qld South West (TQSW0 RTO 0526: TQSW has been delivering the Diploma of Meat Processing to the Meat industry for over 10 years. TQSW facilitators know and understand the core work of leaders in meat processing. Facilitators are selected for their knowledge and experience of processing environments as well as their expertise in the area of delivery.

Pathways to further study: After achieving this qualification, participants may undertake the AMP60115 Advanced Diploma of Meat Processing; for moving into more senior positions within their workplace and industry.
